

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Kristen David Adams has been a professor of law at Stetson University College of Law since 2000, where she currently teaches courses related to real property and domestic and international commercial law. She currently holds the William Reece Smith, Jr. Professorship. Professor Adams is a member of the American Law Institute, a fellow of the American College of Commercial Finance Lawyers, and currently serves as an American Bar Association liaison to the Permanent Editorial Board for the UCC. She has also served on the Council for the American Bar Association Business Law Section. Professor Adams received her B.A. from Rice University, her J.D. from Emory University School of Law, and her LL.M. from Yale Law School. She practiced law in Atlanta before becoming a law professor.

Candace M. Zierdt has been a professor of law at Stetson University College of Law since 2006. Prior to that, she taught at the University of North Dakota School of Law from 1990 to 2006. She currently teaches courses related to Contracts and Commercial Law. Professor Zierdt has been a North Dakota Commissioner on the Uniform Law Commission since 2000, and she has served as chair of the American Bar Association's UCC committee, the Article 1 subcommittee, and the Article 2 subcommittee. She is also a member of the American Law Institute and the UCC committee for the Uniform Law Commission. Professor Zierdt received her

B.A. and J.D. from the University of Kansas and her LL.M from Temple University Beasley School of Law. She practiced law in Kansas City before becoming a law professor.

Professors Adams and Zierdt are the authors of a number of books and articles relating to commercial law, including CISG Basics: A Guide to International Sales Law, and the annual survey of cases under the United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods, both published by the American Bar Association Business Law Section. Professors Adams and Zierdt are both active in the ABA Business Law Section's Uniform Commercial Code Committee, which both have chaired.